Cover sheet for an interview conducted in Zambia:

Mr. M.S. Mutwale

on 14th November 1978 in Kasempa (Cassette recording with no transcription)

- Unfortunately I have no record of having transcribed this interview with Mr. Mutwale, nor the interviews with Mr. L. Yamba (8th July 1979) and the second interview with Mr. Aaron Ngalande (20th May 1979). I do not mention this fact to them in my early 1980s correspondence when I was finishing my dissertation. I have no further recollection about this.
- Note that this interview was basically conducted by Mr. Luka Yamba and focused NOT on education but Mr. Mutwale's lifework in hospitals and health care. Special confusing note: Three minutes into the second side of the cassette (second WAV file on the CD-R), parts of the interview with Mr. S. Manuwele appear. I had used the cassette with Mr. Manuwele's interview over a year earlier for this interview.
- Mr. Mutwale speaks clearly and informatively and his interview is well worth listening to, especially with regard to the development of health care in the era just before and after Zambia's Independence.
- Attached are two letters from me to Mr. Mutwale in late 1978 and early 1979. Also a letter from Mr. Mutwale to me in 1984 and my reply.

General note on all interviews and interviewees: These cover sheets were created from old notes 25 years ago. They contain key manuscript information in each interviewee's file. Often there is a short chronology of the interviewee's life written at the time of the interview. Most interviewees by this time (2006) are deceased; hence the huge potential value of this old interview. All interviews focused on education in the North West Province of Zambia mainly in the period from World War II until the 1970s. They often contain information on other topics that in some way related to education. All interviewees were in some way leaders of their own community or missionaries who had spent much of their life in the N.W.P Most interview transcripts contain rectangular boxes for, or with, 5 numbers. These were used to code key data for research and writing in this pre-computer era. These codes are now meaningless for me and for any one else. Unless noted otherwise, these interviewees can be used by scholars without restrictions. 8/9/2006

Dear Mr. Mutwale,

I have received your letter. Fortunately, I still have a few copies left of my dissertation. I will place it in the mail early tomorrow morning using parcel post surface mail. It should reach you within three months. Should you not get it by November, however, please let me know.

Along with the copy I will indicate how people can get additional copies, if desired. American and Canadian dissertations (except for those from a tiny handful of universities) have really become a new type of book as you shall see -- one of the many new by-products of the modern electronic age!

I hope you have a good year with excellent health and much happiness.

Sincerely.

Mr. E. Mutwale, P.O. Box 36, KASEMPA

Dear Mr. Mutwale,

I very much regret that I was unable to see you when I visited Kasempa with the colleagues in May. Even more I regret that I have not yet transcribed the interview tape that Mr. Yamba and I made with you last November which I had hoped to transcribe by January! As you know, at times life can be very complicated and many duties get postponed.

At present I am on my way to America and Istill have the tape with me and still hope to transcribe it within the next several months. When I do, I shall send you a transcription for your comments and additions.

Again my apologies for this extra-ordinary delay. I wish you and your family all the best.

Very sincerely,

P. David Wilkin
